In the ages to come, such books as this will live to give to the world their wealth of information not then from any other source to be obtained. The Great Libraries of the world will preserve them. Appreciating this fact, and actuated in the highest sense by a desire to obey the Divine injunction, "Honor thy father and thy mother," several gentlemen bearing the honored family name of Lasher, determined, before it was too late, to put together in tangible shape, such records of the family as are now accessible.

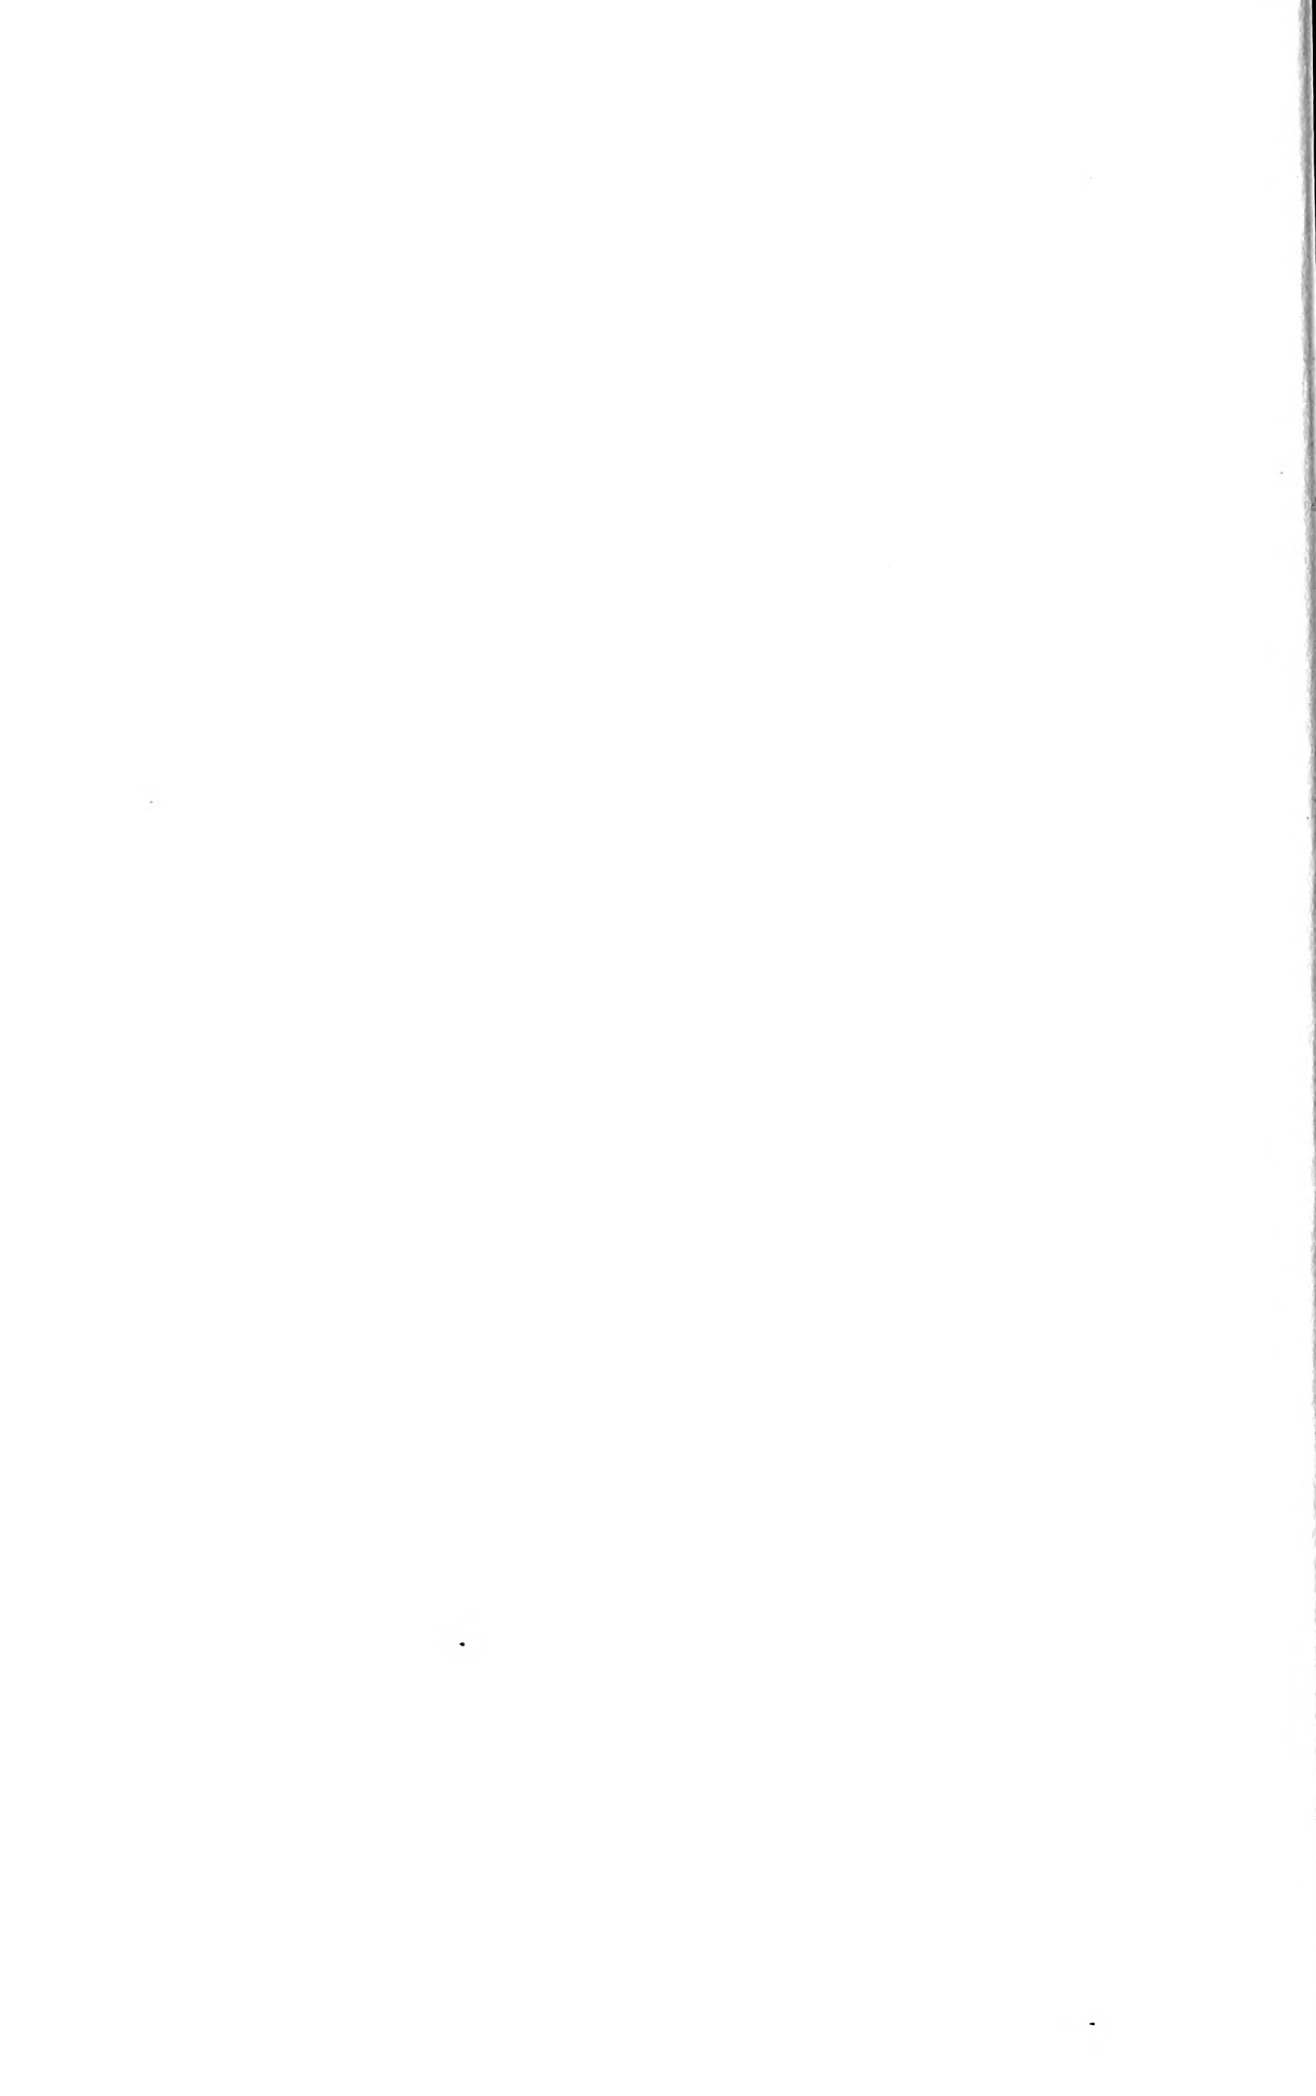

The compiling of this genealogy was started through the active co-operation of George W. Lasher, D. D., of Cincinnati, Ohio, Alfred P. Lasher, Esq., of Saugerties, N. Y., Hazard Lasher, Esq., of New York City and Thomas J. Lasher, Esq., of Brooklyn, N. Y., of whom Alfred P. Lasher, Esq. took the lead; giving freely of his time and of his money that this work might be completed, thus gratifying his friends and to be praised by generations yet to come.

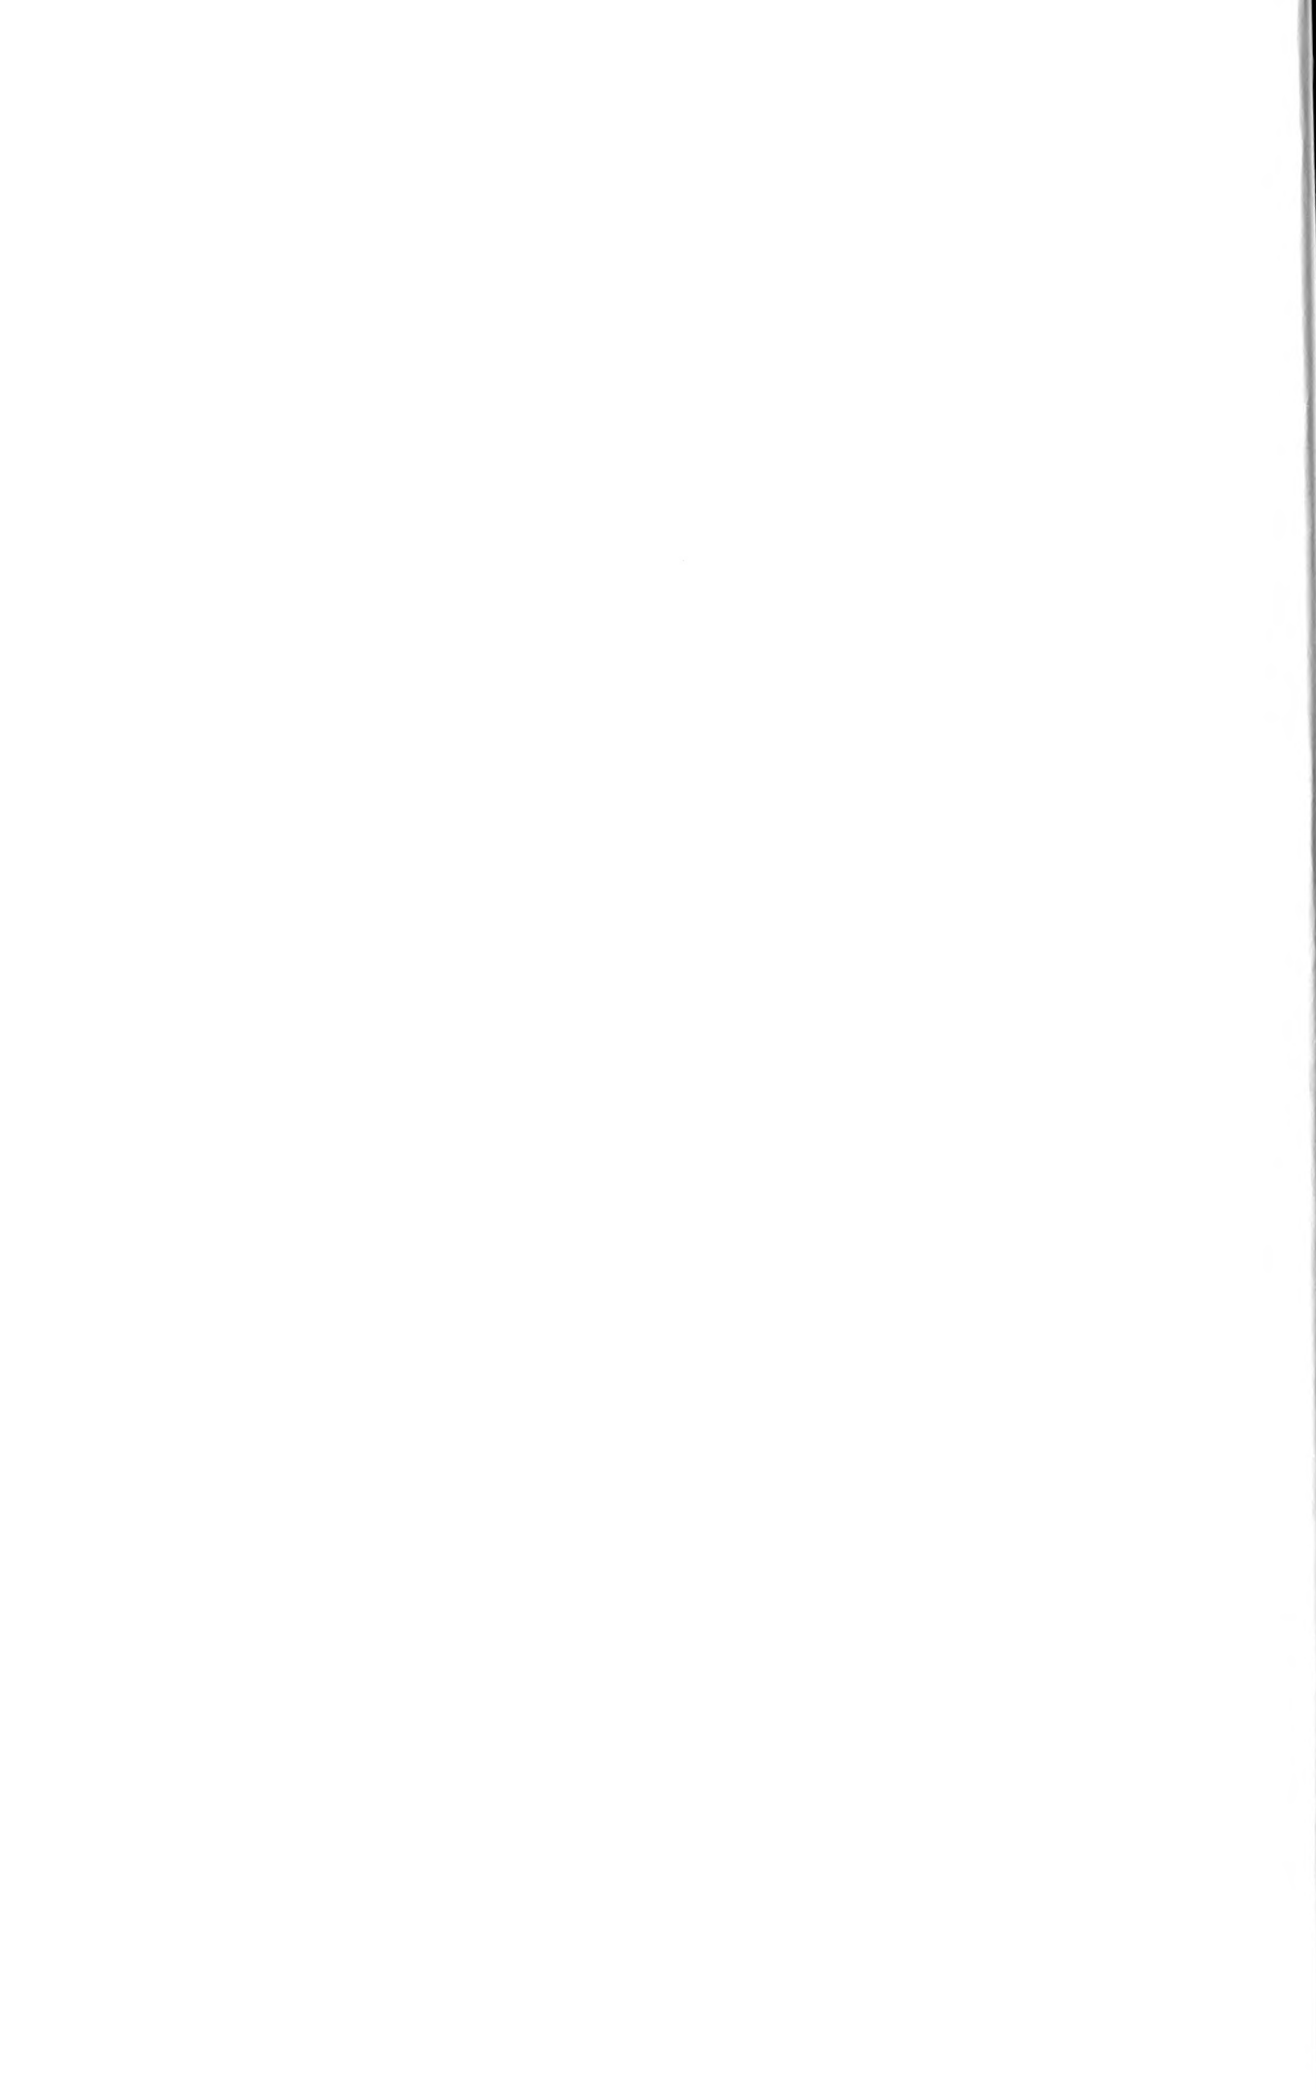

There are gaps in the work which from the lack of information are not now filled, for the descendants of these early settlers whose name is now Lasher, and other descendants of various names, do not differ from those of other families. More modern details would have been given if more of the letters and circulars addressed to the members of the family, soliciting information, had been answered; those who did not answer either from lack of energy or courtesy, or from neglect, or some reason known only to themselves, have apparently shown their unwillingness to interest themselves in the collection and preservation of the annals of their family.

It is to be hoped that some later generation will take an interest in the matter and make more full and complete what is here given. As time progresses, old papers, old books and records, by accidental and other causes are destroyed and lost—knowledge which our ancestors possessed passes away; and this will continue to be the case in the future. The contents of these pages are from church and family records, old papers, tombstones, public documents and the early history of the country, and from information derived from members of the family on whom personal calls were made. They are intended to be accurate and reliable; but in a work of this kind errors are apt to creep in and no doubt have crept in, in spite of all efforts to prevent it.

In the early French, Dutch and German churches the records were kept in the different languages; for the purposes of this genealogy the records are here given by translation and equivalents in English. To the members of the family and others who have kindly allowed the examination of their records and papers and afforded the information they could gather or possessed, the compiler returns his sincere thanks, feeling sure that when all in present life have gone Home, the then reader of these pages will bless the memory of all who in any way lent their aid in preparing the manuscript.

The Lasher Family

No. 1 to No. 115

The project of establishing colonies of French Protestants in America, was advocated as early as the middle of the sixteenth century. Spain foremost in discovery and exploration of the New World, was now nearly without a rival upon its continents and waters. The vast empires of Mexico and Peru had fallen an easy prey to her captains; and the riches which this conquest poured into the royal treasury enabled Charles the Fifth to carry on the wars which especially humiliated France. The plan for weakening her inveterate foe by planting settlements along the American shore thus contesting the sovereignty of the New World with Spain was openly advocated by the illustrious Gaspard de Coligny. But there was another reason perhaps more potent, that prompted him, he was preparing to be the fearless champion of religious freedom and the rights of conscience that he proved himself ever after. At this moment, the outlook for Protestantism in France was an anxious one. The doctrines of the Reformation proclaimed by Luther had soon spread into the neighboring territory of France, and made converts among the learned and titled as well as among the common people. The king, Francis the First, himself professed a desire to see the abuses of the church corrected. Motives of state policy prompted Francis to seek an alliance with the Protestant princes of Germany and to conciliate the Lutherans among his own subjects. But it was not long before, influenced by other considerations, he forsook the cause of moderation upon which he had entered, and acknowledged himself the implacable foe of the Reformation. Parliamentary enactments pronounced the profession of the new doctrines a crime, to be punished with death; and execution for heresy became frequent throughout the kingdom. The last years of Francis I. were stained by the massacre of the Protestant inhabitants of twenty-two towns and villages and by the burning at the stake of fourteen members of the newly organized Church of Meaux. Under his son, Henry II., the laws aimed at heresy became increasingly severe.

From this time on the story of the persecution of the Protestants in France—the intrigues of the Jesuits—that body of religious diplomats to whom “the end justifies the means” was all in all, wholly sanctioned and upheld by the Roman Catholic Church—we have a story of devastation, bloodshed and dishonor—all in the name of God—wholly unparalled in the history of the world.

It was from this horrible persecution that fully one-fourth of the population of France sought safety by flight to other lands and there is hardly a civilized country in the world in which the descendants of these Frenchmen cannot be found.

Coming down to 1656-59, after a period of comparative quiet through the early years of the reign of Louis XIV., the tolerant course adopted by the government gave displeasure to the Church of Rome; and soon the King, yielding to their persuasions, entered upon a reactionary course, which was to culminate in the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, and in the suppression of the Protestant faith in France by interdicting the national Synods, the last of which was held in November, 1659.

It was in these distressful days that Francois Le Seur came to New Amsterdam ; he arrived April 10th, 1657, soon afterwards settling at New Harlem, where with twenty other freeholders in response to a petition signed by them addressed to the governer and council of New Netherlands, they were permitted to buy a tract of land adjoining the "Great Kill" or Harlem River, on which ground was broken for the new town, August, 14th, 1658, and was named New Harlem by request of Peter Stuyvesant, the Dutch Governor. Francois, with several others, became dissatisfied soon afterwards, owing to excessive taxation by the Dutch and went to Esopus, near the present Kingston, N. Y. It was here and at New Hurley, a near-by town, where he served as a soldier in Capt. Pawling's Company, in defense against the Indians. He was at Kingston, N. Y., as a soldier, when the little town was invested for three weeks by a band of several hundred Indians ; after a year of terror, known as the Esopus War, peace was concluded with the Indian tribes, July 14th, 1660.

Francois Le Seur was born in Challe, or Colmenil, in Normandy, a small borough or market town three miles south of Dieppe. His name, taking such forms as Leseur, Lesier, Lagear, and Logier, was well established in Caux, and a century previous had figured among the cloth makers of Rouen. Francois and his sister came over together, neither being married. [“Le Seur was a French Huguenot and one of those who emigrated to Virginia, and it is probable that those who settled in New York — Solomon and others — came up from there.”— Va. Hist. Soc., Feb. 1886.].

As to whether he was a brother of Solomon La Chair, a well known lawyer in those days and conspicuous for accurate records left by him, it is interesting to read: “Solomon La Chair, or another of that ilk, lived in the Esopus, or the region around the present Kingston, Ulster County, N. Y., having gone there after the New Netherlands became New York City and province — I believe the name Lasher is an adaptation, by way of Holland, of the French name La Chair.” “That so many Lashers are found in Germantown, Columbia County, and also in Ulster County, is easily accounted for by the fact that Solomon, and others with their children, went to Kingston, for it was in those places, and their vicinity, that their children raised their families.”

The record of Francois Le Seur's marriage is in the Dutch Reformed Church, New York, which reads as follows: "Francois Lejere Van Scalmeny by Dieppe, in Franckryk, en jannetge Hillebrants, Van Amsterdam, july 12, 1659." Translated, reads as follows: Francois Lejere from Scalmeny, near Dieppe, in France, married Jannet Hillebrants from Amsterdam, Holland, July 12, 1659.

The marriage record of Francois is that he married Jannet Hillebrants, which means, Jannet the daughter of Hillebrant — she was, in fact, the daughter of Hillebrand Paterson, of Amsterdam, Holland.

His sister, Jannet LaSeur, married Cornelius A. Viervant, of Utrecht, Oct. 28, 1668, and took up their residence in New Harlem, N. Y. Francois resided for a time in New Harlem and was living in Kingston, N. Y., before his marriage; immediately after the ceremony returned there with his wife, and it was there they made their home. From Kingston, the children of Francois moved and made their homes and raised their families in the settlements of Ulster and surrounding counties. One of these children, John, resided in the vicinity of West Camp, N. Y., settled by the Palatines in 1709-10.

Here, John was brought in intimate contact with the Germans, and the families speedily intermarried; in a generation or two, all the peculiarities of language, dress and habit of the Frenchman had disappeared and the German customs and influences dominated, nothing was left save the name and this was spelled in many ways. In the Kingston, New York and other records, kept by the early churches, the name is variously spelled: Langer, Langier, Langigar, Langeer, Legier, Lachair, Lessier, Lachier, Lesser, Lescier, Lesier, Lasier, Lescher, Leisier, Lisier, Lashier, Liesier, Lasier, Leshier, Lusier, Luzier, Lazier, Lezier, Lizier, Lissier, Lazhier, Loejeer, Logier, Leysier, Lezeer, Leycher, Lisser, Litzert, Lygher, Lycher, Laejaer, Lescherin, Loescher, Loscher, Lasser, Leyer, Le Chaire.

In the records, edited by Fernow for New York City, the name is spelled La Scheer and La Chair.

There seems to have been no recorded signature of any of the names in the Hudson River settlements until Dec. 30th, 1701, when John's name, signed to a petition is spelled Jno. Lashair. Again in a petition to Lord Cornbury, Oct. 2nd, 1702, as a resident of Ulster County, it is spelled Jan. Losir. At about this time the other family of Lashers, who were of German descent, are recorded under the name Lasch-erin and Loescher and the other spellings above noted, but in a generation or two the families were so merged that they were all known as of one name with its multitudenous spellings until 1721; when the name was universally pronounced, and in this year first spelled, Lasher. Up to this time, and for many years afterwards, Domines and every one else who had the keeping of records as part of their official duties, spelled the name phonetically, or just as it sounded when spoken before them; in many church records the same Domine spelled it in many different ways. Francois anglicized is Francis — thus we have living at Kingston, N. Y., in 1659, Francis Lasher, born 1625 a French Huguenot “Who fled from the storms in his own country to find quiet in ours.” He was a strong, resourceful man; in the wilderness making a home; fighting as a soldier in the Indian Wars; all the while providing well for his family and inculcating the moral precepts as taught by the Church.

His descendants have proved themselves worthy; we have found them intensely loyal to the Colonial government and still more loyal to the cause of liberty as upholders of the Revolution.

Francois was by profession a Civil Engineer, at which profession he worked as opportunity offered, but like all the other settlers of those days he followed farming for a livelihood, indeed there was little else to do.

He came from a distinguished family in Normandy as evidenced by the Historical Records and family Coat-of-Arms reproduced in this book. His brother was Eustace Le Seur, the celebrated painter, born in 1617, and his grand-nephew was Jean F. Le Seur, the composer, born in 1763; the attainments and brilliant achievements of some of the present generation show marked characteristics of their honored ancestors.

His wife, Catharine Elizabeth Wilson, was a daughter of James Wilson, of Coxsackie, N. Y., and his wife, Rachel Vosberg. Their daughter, Jane, m. Cyrus Burhans, and their dau. Louise, m. Charles F. North, of Cohoes, N. Y. The father of above James was Alonzo Wilson, who m. Mary ——. They were from Massachusetts and were of the early settlers in and around Boston.

In connection with the record of John Edmund Lasher it may be said that the lives of successful men whose influence moulds the events of life by subduing adversity, and shaping toward their personal good each condition as it confronts them is always interesting and instructive; but it becomes more so when such lives present in combined view the elements of material success, blended with the completeness of moral attribute and the attractions of an unblemished reputation. Such characters stand out as the proofs of human progress, the illustrations of human dignity and worth, and as beacon lights to the generations which follow. The success of such a man is not, as some would consider, fortuitous; it is not the result of a chain of fortunate accidents; it is the logical result of a nature into which are infused the characteristics of a strong will, keen perception and indomitable energy, which utilized, have made their possessor a successful man.

Mr. Lasher passed his boyhood days amidst the surroundings of a rural home. His father, though a man of limited means, was a highly respected member of the community, and one of the leading agriculturists of the country. Here our subject passed an uneventful boyhood, availing himself of every opportunity for schooling during the winter months at the district school.

At the age of twenty-one, Mr. Lasher went to Saugerties, N. Y., and accepted a position as clerk in a store, a few months later he went to Coxsackie, N.Y., and became associated with his brother who was already in business there. Here he remained five years, and although the monotony may have been irksome, and the remuneration small, still the experience was salutary, by familiarizing him with the routine of general business and a practical insight into commercial life. He was a close observer, quick to grasp opportunities afforded him to study human character as exemplified in the different individuals with whom he came in contact, and there is little doubt that the lessons learned at that country store were invaluable in moulding the future character of the man, and in giving him habits of method and organization, which qualified him in an eminent degree for the arduous and extensive operations in which he was destined to become engaged. In fact Mr. Lasher looked back upon that experience as one of the most profitable periods of his life. In 1853 he engaged in the general merchandise business at Coxsackie having formed a partnership with Alfred Palmer for that purpose, which business continued until Jan. 1, 1857, when Mr. Lasher became a member of the firm of Shultis and Lasher of Saugerties. He retired from this firm Jan. 1, 1862, at which time he formed a partnership under the name of Russell and Lasher, this being dissolved by mutual consent Jan. 1, 1867, Mr. Lasher retiring. During these years his extensive dealings with the Hudson River Railroad Company had brought him into contact with the officials of the road, with whom he had become personally acquainted and intimate. In 1867 he entered into a contract to supply a large bill of bridge and dimension timber for this Company and on the 25th of February started for Florida; arriving there he visited the lumber regions and then went on a similar trip through the lumber regions of Georgia. This even more favorably impressed him with the business. The lumber he had contracted to supply was delivered as per contract. His next contract was with W. H. Vanderbilt for 175,000 pine ties, which were the first Southern pine railroad ties introduced in the North. From this time on he devoted his attention solely to this business, handling from thirty to thirty-five million feet of ties and timber annually.

Mr. Lasher always found time to devote to the general welfare of the community in which he lived, and he gave liberally of his time and means towards public and charitable enterprises. He gave a magnificent pipe organ to the Reformed Church, of which he was a consistent member and elder for many years. He presented a fine bell to the First Baptist Church of his town, and a similar one to the Methodist Church of Bristol, New York.

During the latter years of his life Mr. Lasher was an extensive traveller. He visited every state and capitol city in the Union, except Dallas. He was a thorough American and believed that within the limits of his own country the scenery was as beautiful and attractive as that in other lands.

He was an ardent Republican from the foundation of that party until the day of his death--and though many times importuned, would never accept public office.

When the Ulster County Savings Institution had become involved, a few of the public men of Kingston were laboring zealously to avert a calamity by effecting a new organization of the bank upon a sound basis; these gentlemen appealed to Mr. Lasher to serve as one of the new board of officers. He could only accept the position at a considerable sacrifice of time and perhaps business loss, yet his interest in matters of such public welfare to his County was so strong that he accepted, and the new organization was successfully accomplished and at the first meeting of the board of directors he was elected vice-president, a position he held continuously until his retirement, due to failing health. He also served for many years as a director of the First National Bank of Saugerties. He spent the sunset of his years in his pleasant home at Saugerties-on-Hudson, surrounded by the comforts and luxuries of a competence. His success was due to his own personal efforts and untiring industry, while honor and integrity were his guiding stars. In his death he was sincerely mourned by all. To his descendants he left the priceless heritage of a good name.

The only child of John Edmund Lasher and his wife Catharine Elizabeth Wilson was:

- Mary M. Gillespy is a daughter of Jason Gillespy and his wife Mary Von Vredenburg. Jason was a son of Capt. John Gillespy, b. 1773 at Saugerties and buried there, d. 1852, and his wife Lavinia Myers. Capt John was a son of Major John Gillespy, b. 1741; d. Jan. 5, 1810, and his wife Rachel Smedes, b. 1742; d. 1825. Major John was the son of John Gillespy who was of the old Scotch family of this name, well known in the north of Scotland.

Mary Von Vredenburg, wife of Jason Gillespy was a descendant of William Von Vredenburg who came to New Amsterdam in 1658 in the ship "Gilded Beaver." He was a soldier in the Dutch West India Service, lived at fort "William Hendrick" in 1673, and in the new fortification of New Orange. He removed to Esopus, now Kingston, N. Y., in 1667. He married in New Amsterdam Oct. 19, 1674, Appolonia Barents of New Netherland.

Among the business men of Saugerties no one holds a more prominent place than Alfred P. Lasher who is interested in many of the important enterprises of Ulster County. He was born in Coxsackie, Greene Co., from which place his father John Edmond Lasher removed when he was but three years old.

His education was acquired in the public schools of Saugerties, which was supplemented by a course of study at Glens Falls and Hudson Academies.

He has been a deep student of business methods in which lines he has but few equals.

When he was eighteen years old, he entered the employ of Burhans & Brainerd, remaining with them as a clerk for one year when failing health compelled a rest for six months.

He next engaged as shipping clerk with John Maxwell at Malden remaining there nearly two years.

In 1881, Mr. Lasher went south and was engaged in shipping turpentine and yellow pine, familiarizing himself thoroughly with the details of that business. On his return he worked for his father for five years, during which time he was thoroughly drilled in the application of strict business methods

At the end of five years he was taken into partnership and for many years thereafter assumed the management of the large operations in which the firm was engaged; their business was furnishing yellow pine lumber, ties and bridge lumber being their specialty.

The business was founded by the elder Mr. Lasher, but the energy and ability of the son added much to the success of the firm, which enjoyed the full confidence of all with whom they had dealings.

In politics, Mr. Lasher is a Republican and although he never aspired to office holding, he was prevailed upon to accept one term as Mayor of Saugerties to which office he was elected to serve for the year 1898. He was a member of the County Central Committee for many years. He has been a member of the Board of Education since its organization and has been honored by election to its various offices; this service has extended over a period of eleven years. He is also one of the trustees of the Village Corporation. He is president of the Free Public Library of Saugerties.

AN EARLY RESIDENT

PART SECOND

Descendants of Sebastian Loescher

No. 200 to No. 1745

“THE GLORY OF CHILDREN ARE THEIR FATHERS.”

“THIS SHALL BE WRITTEN FOR THE GENERATION TO COME.”

“TELL YOUR CHILDREN OF IT, AND LET YOUR CHILDREN
TELL THEIR CHILDREN, AND THEIR CHILDREN ANOTHER GENERATION.”

SEBASTIAN LOESCHER

No. 200 to No. 1745

The period from 1702-1727 marks an epoch in the early German emigration. Between forty and sixty thousand left their native country. The unparalleled ravages and desolations by the troops of Louis XIV under Turenne were the stern prelude to bloody persecutions. To escape the dreadful sufferings awaiting them, German and other protestants emigrated to the English Colonies in America. In 1708 and 1709, thirty-three thousand on an invitation of Queen Anne, left their homes in the Rhine country for London, where some twelve or fifteen thousand arrived in the summer of 1708. Ten sails of vessels were freighted with upwards of four thousand Germans for New York. They departed on or about the 25th of December, 1709, and after a six months tedious voyage reached New York in June, 1710. On the inward passage and immediately on landing it is estimated seventeen hundred died. The survivors were encamped in tents they had brought with them from England, on Nutting, now Governors Island. Here they remained till late in Autumn when about fourteen hundred were removed one hundred miles up the Hudson River where they formed two settlements, one of these called East Camp, composed of four so-called "villages" (Hunterstown, Queensburg, Annsburg and Hapsburg) was in the present town of Germantown, Columbia County, and the other called West Camp, composed of three so-called "villages" (Elizabethtown, Georgetown and Newtown) was in the present town of Saugerties, Ulster County, but originally under the jurisdiction of Albany County. The widowed women, sickly men and orphan children remained in New York. Those settled on Hudson River were under indenture to serve Queen Anne as grateful subjects, to manufacture tar and raise hemp in order to repay their expenses of transportation, and cost of subsistence, to the amount of ten thousand pounds sterling, which had been advanced by Parliamentary grant. A supply of naval stores from this arrangement had been confidently anticipated. The experiment proved a complete failure. There was mismanagement. The Germans, being unjustly oppressed, became dissatisfied with their treatment, and with their situation. Gov. Hunter resorted to violent measures to secure obedience to his demands. In this too, he failed. One hundred and fifty families, to escape the certainty of famishing, left late in the Autumn of 1712 for Schoharie Valley, some sixty miles northwest of Livingston Manor. After three weeks travel through the unbroken forests, they reached Schoharie. Here they remained some ten years, when owing to some defect in their titles, they were deprived of both lands and improvements. In the Spring of 1723 thirty-three families removed and settled in Pennsylvania, in Tulpehocken, some fifteen miles west of Reading. A few years afterward others followed them. The other dissatisfied Germans who did not choose to follow their friends to Pennsylvania sought for and found a future home on the frontiers of Mohawk Valley. Timothy Dwight writing previous to 1822, says of the Germans of Germantown, N. Y. "A small collection of them at Germantown in the southwest corner of Columbia County have been mentioned to me by authority which I cannot dispute, as a very worthy and respectable body of people, distinguished for their industry, good order, sound morals and attachment to religion."

Among the early settlers at West Camp, N. Y., we find Sebastian Loescher with his wife and children. Some of the latter when of age crossed the Hudson River to East Camp, now Germantown, N. Y., and there raised their families.

As to the antecedents of Sebastian Lasher little is known except that he was probably a German. It is unknown from which part or place in Germany he came; there is no record yet discovered which would show that he was a Palatine or was not a Palatine. We know this simple fact in regard to him; he was at West Camp in 1710. That he came to West Camp with his wife and several of his children is proven beyond question, for in the marriage record of his son George in 1726 it is distinctly stated that he is the son of Sebastian. George having been married in 1726, is of evidence that he was born previous to the first settlement of the Palatines at West Camp.

It may be conceded by some and taken for granted by others that he was a Palatine, but it is not proven. There is no proof that he was a German. The fact that he attended the German Lutheran Church or the Dutch Reformed Church is no evidence, as the settlers of all nations made one of these two churches the House of Worship for themselves and their children. There are many in the family who believe that the first Sebastian Lasher was a descendant of Solomon La Chaire of New York, the lawyer practising there in 1645 to 1662, and given the Old German name of Sebastian because born and brought up in the midst of Germans.

In substantiation of this belief there are many theories. There are those who claim (and their claim is entitled to more than a passing consideration) that he was an older brother of John Lasher whose descendants are given in the third part of this book. This John having come with him to this country and remaining in New York as an apprentice in the Cordwainer's trade. The fact that no land titles were given to the early settlers at East and West Camp, is of itself good reason, why no authentic record is now to be had concerning the early life and possessions of these people.

Subjected to desolating persecutions, the Lutherans in Germany and Huguenots in France, the cultured and educated, as well as the poor who had had no opportunities, were alike driven to seek new homes in foreign lands. All indications point towards a higher state of advancement for Sebastian Lasher than was usual amongst the immigrants.

The story of the Palatines is here-with given because the immediate descendants of Sebastian Lasher took their wives and husbands from amongst these people, and therefore there is probably not any of this family but are connected with the early Palatine settlers. Of Sebastian Lasher, the only positive record is the record of the birth of his daughter Maria Elizabeth, and her baptism in the church at West Camp in 1710, and in the record that he was willing to stay at West Camp in 1724 if lands were surveyed to him.

Under the heads of families mention is made in but few instances, as to the occupation of these people; they are largely farmers and fruit growers of the better class. The early settlers came from parts of Germany which have been among the best cultivated portions of Europe, and naturally took to farming. Other pursuits were followed, it is true, but the prevailing pursuit was agriculture. In the classified list of those who reached London during the great German Exodus in 1709, more than 67 per cent were farmers.

Nine tenths of the Palatines who came to New York during this Exodus left the city and went into the country, and most of them took to farming. In fact there was nothing else for them to get at for many years. Even most of those who had mechanical trades were compelled to take to farming because there was not much of a demand for bakers, glass-blowers, millers, engravers, and some other classes of handicraftsmen. So it is with many of the descendants of Sebastian Lasher—they are doing the farming on their fertile acres—adjacent to their neighbors who are nearly all descendants of the first farmer Palatine immigrants. As a rule these people have attended strictly to the business of farming and are well to do.

The occupation of land by the early settlers was subject to a system known as Quit Rent, which was a reserved rent in grant of land by the Proprietary—by the payment of which the landholder was to be freed from the other taxes.

994. JOHN E., m. 1857, Jane A. Wood, b. at Marbleton, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1837; d. at Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 13, 1901. She was a daughter of John Wood, and his wife Maria Russell of Shokan, N. Y.

When he was a child the parents of John E. Lasher moved to Woodstock, N. Y. At an early age he was elected Justice of the Peace and Supervisor of the Town of Woodstock, N. Y. In 1852 he removed to Kingston, N. Y., where he engaged in general business until 1865.

Directly after the Civil War, Mr. Lasher secured the lease of the Mansion House at Kingston and conducted the same until 1871. He then became proprietor of the Overlook Mountain House in the Catskills. Mr. Lasher was instrumental in promoting the building of this hotel and in which he had an interest. This was one of the pioneer large hotels of the Catskills and in its day was one of the most famous.

Mr. Lasher entertained many distinguished persons; General Grant, while President, was Mr. Lasher's guest for several days. After the destruction of the Overlook Mountain House by fire in 1875, he removed to Newburgh, N. Y., residing there for four years as proprietor of the Orange Hotel. In 1879, he moved to Little Falls, N. Y., conducting both the Girvan House and Metropolitan Hotel. In 1885, he returned to Kingston, N. Y., and again became proprietor of the Mansion House where he resided until his death, Sept. 8th, 1899.

Mr. Lasher took an intense interest in politics, but never was a candidate for office, although many times a delegate to State Conventions of his Party; he was a great admirer of Grover Cleveland and was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in 1892.

At the time of his death he was a vestryman of the Church of the Holy Spirit, at Kingston, N. Y. He was a man of strong characteristics and at his decease was sincerely mourned by all. Children:

One year in Elizabethtown, N.J., over two years at Christ Church, 70th Street and Broadway, N. Y., and at present is assistant in St. Andrew's Church, Harlem, N. Y. City. The Lasher family as a whole may well be proud of this young clergyman. 2002. JOHN, m. (1) Helena Pears, May 19, 1753 ;
(2) Catharine Ernest, June 21, 1763, at Presbyterian Church, N. Y.

He made his will Feb. 13, 1806. He describes himself as a gentleman and devises to his son John B., to daughters Mary A., Catharine, Helen and to children of Mary A. and Catharine. His son John B. is made sole executor. He died, Feb. 29, 1806. He appears to have been a soldier in Capt. Henry Cuylers Company in 1738, gradually by merit alone working his way upward to the eminent position held during the Revolution.

His command under Colonial rule was known as the First City Battalion of Independents, the companies of which were known as Fusileers, Artillery,

COL. JOHN LASHER

Grenadier and Light Infantry, each company having a special uniform of its own.

On Nov. 10, 1759, the King's birthday was celebrated by the usual grand display. "On this occasion the Militia Company of Grenadiers were called out and mustered at the house of Mr. John Marthal at the North River, where they roasted an ox at their own expense, drank jovially all the Loyal Toasts and concluded the evening with exhibiting a variety of curious fireworks." On the the 25th of July, 1763, the New York Gazette says of a celebration on Tuesday last of His Majesty's proclamation for a general peace between England, Spain and Portugal. "The Militia was ordered out for the occasion, and the procession of the Lieut.-Governor with His Majesty's Council, attended by all the principal gentlemen of the place, preceded by the company of Grenadiers (who made an excellent appearance)."

John Lasher was first Lieutenant in the above company of Independent Grenadiers under command of the Earl of Sterling, Capt., as shown by details for guard duty in 1765.

In the beginning of May, 1775, Capt. John Lasher and his Company march out seven miles to meet and escort the Eastern Delegates on their way to Philadelphia; on arrival of the delegates in New York they were warmly welcomed by the citizens.

At a meeting of the Committee of Safety, Aug. 11, 1775, Col. Lasher's battalion is mentioned, on Sept. 14, 1775, he is requested to make a return of his officers in order that they may be commissioned.

On Nov. 14, 1775, he was on the committee of sixty for observation; on May 1st, same year, he was elected one of the Committee of Safety; on April 26th, same year, he is one of the signers for provincial Congress, and on the 21st of Sept. signs an address to the Committee of Safety.

On Jan. 26, 1776, Col. Lasher signified to the Committee of Safety, that the battalion under his command would in general be very desirous of being taken into the public service and pay, and he was requested to confer with his officers and report the result to the committee. At a meeting of the officers of the first battalion of New York Independent Militia, Jan. 29, 1776, Col. Lasher being President, the battalion voted on the question of entering the service, and on Jan. 31, 1776, Col. Lasher delivered a memorandum of such officers of his regiment as are willing to go into the Continental Service; 32 having voted to serve. On Feb. 11, 1776, Col. Lasher was ordered by the Committee to detail officers and men of his regiment to escort Samuel Bayard, Jr., Esq., the Deputy Secretary of the Colony, to the dwelling house of Nicholas Bayard, Esq., Alderman of the Out Ward of the city.

Fred Rhinelanders writing to Peter Van Schaak, Feb. 23, 1776, says "We are going to raise a new battalion, Col. Lasher and Gouverneur Morris are candidates for the command; as both gentlemen have great merit it is hard to tell which will succeed."

On Feb. 28, 1776, at a meeting of the Provincial Congress, held in New York, the Hon. John Hancock, Esq., President of the Continental Congress, nominated John Lasher as a Colonel in one of the four regiments to be raised for the defence of the Colony.

Nicholas Bayard on March 4, 1776, requests the Congress that the Grenadier Company of Col. Lasher's Regiment having behaved so prudently as a guard at his house where the colonial records are kept, may be continued, and not be replaced by some other company; this guard consisted of 48 men divided into details of twelve men each; each detail serving 24 hours.

On May 29, 1776, Col. Lasher and his officers handed in their accounts for services, in pursuance of an order of the Provincial Congress, dated March 14, 1776. They were ordered paid same as Continental officers and soldiers. On July 17, 1777, Col. Lasher had charge of the stores of powder and lead belonging to the Continentals, as on this day the Congress orders him to deliver 100 pounds of powder and 300 weight of lead to Col. John Harper for use of the Rangers to be raised under his command, and on Aug. 13, 1777, he was ordered to deliver 100 small arms and accoutrements to Col. Graham.

John Lasher was a prisoner, May 11, 1778, in the old Provost Jail, New York City, as a member of Major Goutches' Rangers; he was soon exchanged.

During the War of the Revolution, he superintended and his regiment built what has since been known as the Bayard Hill Battery, N. Y., this Battery was built where the present Grand and Mulberry Sts. intersect; Col. Lasher and his regiment were thanked by Washington in General Orders.

Colonel John Lasher lived on the Battery, New York City, and appears to have been a man of some wealth, as at the fire Sept. 12, 1776, four houses belonging to him were burned. He built two houses in 1780 opposite the mansion built for the President's residence, as shown in a picture in "Early New York Houses." In 1806, his son John B. sold the corner house for $9,400.00; the other for $8,300.00. After the Revolutionary War he was a merchant in the wholesale grocery business. He was appointed first Surveyor of the Port of New York when the custom house was established, Nov. 18, 1784. From his early manhood, he took a great interest in local affairs. On March 18, 1776, in a petition to the King by the prominent Presbyterians of New York City, he appears as one of them. On August 20, 1770, he, with others, applied for a charter of incorporation for the Society of Cordwainers. Children by first wife:

Richard Kent (2136), 3d son of William Kent and Emily Lorillard (great-great granddaughter of Col. John Lasher), was born in New York at 39 West 19th Street, Feb. 5th, 1894, and is the youngest male descendant of Col. Lasher.

When the photograph was taken from which this picture is engraved, he was about three years of age. He was a very small child, weighing under three pounds when he was born, but was always strong, vigorous and free from sickness. He is purely American in his descent on every line and unites in himself many strains distinguished in the early days of the Republic. The Kent line traces its descent back to Thomas Kent who came to America and settled with his wife at Gloucester, Mass., prior to 1634. (See Kent Genealogy, page 159.) In the Kent line are found the names of the Rev. Elisha Kent, who graduated from Yale College in 1729, and married Abigail, daughter of the Rev. Joseph Moss. Elisha Kent was a distinguished Presbyterian Divine. His son, Moss Kent, who married Hannah Rogers, daughter of Dr. Uriah Rogers, was the father of James Kent, Chancellor of the State of New York, and author of Kent's Commentaries on American Law. He was the great-great grandfather of Richard Kent. Through his paternal great grandmother, Richard Kent is descended from Caleb S. Riggs, a celebrated chancery lawyer of New Jersey early in the Nineteenth Century. On his father's mother's side, Richard Kent's grandmother was the daughter of Edwin Clark who married Sarah Irving, the niece of Washington Irving.

RICHARD KENT

The Clark line is also very old and is identified with New York history to the very earliest date, as Edwin Clark was the direct descendant of Alexander Clark who married Femmetje Van Borsum at the Reformed Dutch Church in New York City, Jan. 13, 1714. Femmetje Van Borsum was the daughter of Hermanus Van Borsum, who was the eldest son of Egbert Van Borsum who married Annetje Hendricks, Dec. 11, 1639, at New Amsterdam (New York). The record of this marriage shows it to be the earliest church marriage that was performed in the Dutch Colony. It was celebrated by the Rev. Everadus Bogardus and the entry is thus recorded:

“Dec. 11, 1639, Egbert Van Borsum j. m. van Embden en Annetje Hendricks j. d. van Amsterdam.”

On his mother's side, Richard Kent is also descended from the elder branch of the Lorillard family, who some time prior to the Revolution, came to New York and entered into business and became very successful merchants. He can also through his great grandmother, Catharine A. Griswold, who married Peter Lorillard, trace his descent to the direct line of New England Griswolds.
